2. At [REDACTED] convenience we would be very pleased to discuss with him certain of the subjects covered. [REDACTED] has suggested that it would benefit the Contact Division if he and certain members of his staff were to have the opportunity to review the report in considerable detail with [REDACTED] prior to a more general discussion with you and this Office. If this suggestion meets with your approval [REDACTED] convenience.

3. I am very glad that [REDACTED] was able to make this objective survey and quite naturally pleased at his general conclusions. We have every intention of taking advantage of his specific recommendations. The Chief of each field office has separately expressed both his pleasure at the visit to his office, and the opinion that the survey and discussions were very worthwhile. I would like to add my own appreciation, and that of [REDACTED] for the care and effort that obviously went into both the survey and the report.
